National Health and Medical Research Council

The Australian National Health and Medical Research Council, the Pheo Para Alliance, and the Pheo Para Troopers kindly request that you save the date for an upcoming cocktail reception celebrating a joint cancer research project.

An Australian-based innovative research project supported by the Pheo Para Alliance is underway to find new strategies for diagnosing and treating metastatic pheochromocytoma and paraganglioma (PPGL). This international research collaboration will yield new insights into PPGL that will be translated into better patient care worldwide.

For questions or to reserve a spot, please email Emily Collins at emily@pheo-paraalliance.org
